Submit FAFSA by March 1 Priority Deadline

Students demonstrating financial need may be eligible for additional scholarships. File the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA) at www.fafsa.ed.gov by the priority deadline of March 1 to be considered for all scholarships and need-based financial assistance.

March 1 is deadline for WV Promise Scholarship

High school seniors who are West Virginia residents must complete the West Virginia PROMISE Application and file the FAFSA by March 1 to be considered for the WV PROMISE Scholarship.

Renewal Criteria

Most scholarship awards require students to meet certain renewal criteria for continued eligibility. You may view the eligibility criteria of your scholarship by logging into myMU. Once you access your Award Offer, click on the Fund, which hyperlinks to the Fund Message. The Fund Message provides the terms of the award, renewal criteria, and any other steps you may be required to take to receive the award.

Eligibility for renewal is typically checked at the end of the spring semester. A student who does not meet the renewal criteria for a Marshall University Scholarship at the end of the spring semester may make a Marshall University Scholarship Reinstatement Request if the deficiency can be remediated during the summer. A student who does not meet the renewal criteria for a Marshall University Achievement Tuition Waiver Grant at the end of the spring semester may make a Marshall Achievement Tuition Waiver Grant Reinstatement Request if the deficiency can be remediated during the summer. Students who do not meet the renewal criteria by the start of fall semester lose future eligibility for institutional scholarships.

Combining Scholarship Awards

In all cases, the total amount a student is awarded cannot exceed the cost of a Marshall University education. In some instances, when Title IV (certain Federal Financial Aid programs) and WV Higher Education Grant Programs are awarded, students are limited to receive grants and scholarships up to the student's demonstrated financial need.

If a reduction in financial aid is required because the student is a recipient of scholarships, grants, and other financial assistance that exceed allowable amounts, Marshall University reduces self-help (loans and work-study) awards first. If gift aid (scholarships and grants) must be reduced, however, Marshall University institutional scholarships will be reduced before reducing external sources of scholarships/grants.

Student athletes who have been offered an academic scholarship should discuss the award with a financial aid counselor in the Office of Student Financial Assistance to determine whether or not the scholarship can be accepted. Under NCAA rules, student athletes are limited in the amount of institutional gift aid they may receive. Institutional aid includes both athletic scholarships and institutional merit scholarships.

Outside Scholarships

Outside scholarships are processed by the Office of the Bursar. You may be asked to come to the Office of the Bursar to endorse a check as some are made out to Marshall University and the student. Outside scholarship funds will be applied to your account just like institutional scholarship awards after the outside scholarship check has been cashed. Outside scholarships are considered a source of financial aid and follow the same rules under the Combining Scholarship Awards website page.

Scholarship Funding Source Replacement

Marshall University has the right to replace an awarded scholarship with another named scholarship to maximize funding sources. Such changes will not reduce the amount of the student's scholarship, and in some cases, may actually result in an increase to a student's scholarship amount.

Holding Scholarships for Interrupted Attendance

Marshall University may hold a student's scholarship if his/her attendance is interrupted for medical reason, military deployment, or other extenuating circumstances provided the student continues to meet the eligibility requirements. The student must submit an appeal to the Office of Student Financial Assistance and submit verification of reason for leaving (i.e. doctor note, military deployment notification). A student who transfers to another college or university does not qualify for scholarship reinstatement after a break in attendance at Marshall University.
